Beware!

Occasional complaints have reached the offices of Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Vardell of impersonators of internal revenue officers. In all instances effective steps will be taken to protect taxpayers, and vigorously prosecute imposters, it was announced.

It was pointed out that every duly authorized officer of the United States Internal Revenue Service carries with him, at all times, proper credentials. The penalty of impersonating a revenue officer with wrongful intent is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than three years, or both.

May Lose Leg

J. H. Hughes, a brakeman of the S. P., suffered a fall and fractured limb while on duty in the Campbell yards Tuesday afternoon. He was atop a box car and in switching fell to the ground between the cars striking against a part of the car. His right leg was badly splintered above the ankle. He was rushed to the office of Dr. Merrill who rendered first aid and bandaged the limb so that the man could be moved. He was removed to San Jose thence to the S. P. hospital in San Francisco.

High Faculty Elected

The Union High School board has elected the following teachers for the coming school year.

Mr. I. W. Snow, principal; Miss Kittie M. Johnson, drawing and sewing; Miss Clarabell Boesch, English and history; Miss Hazel J. Shepherd, commercial and Latin; Mr. D. H. Cramer, sciences; Miss Muriel Emerson of Prescott, Arizona, English; Miss Adah Nelson, domestic science; and Miss Hardin, history.

Miss Wood and Miss Sprecher have resigned, the former to accept a position in the San Jose schools. Campbell is sorry to lose these teachers who have made a host of warm friends. We wish them every success in their new fields.

On Native Soil Again

A recent letter from Gilbert Newcomb says he was discharged at Camp Dix, N. J., July 3rd and immediately took the train for Vineland, N. J., where he will visit his brother for a few weeks before returning to Campbell. The weather was very hot and the train was jammed with people getting out of the city. The next day being the 4th he went with several families on a picnic at a mill pond near his old home where they enjoyed boating and swimming. The old mill pond, saw mill, and grist mill just as they did years ago. After they arrived home at 6:30 that night they had a regular old fashioned thunder storm. In the midst of the down pour neighbors came running in and said their house was afire—they all went over. The lightning had set fire to the peck of the roof. The fire Co. was soon on hand and had the fire out with only small damages, but a good big scare.

On the trip over they left Marsailles, France, June 7th. There were about 2000 men and officers on board the "Patria." They all had bunks with mattresses so were fairly comfortable. He writes "We made one stop at Oran, Algeria, Africa, and were there three and a half days for coaling—by hand. While there we had a shore leave. Algeria is one of the French colonies in northern Africa. Oran is a city of about 125,000 people. It is about 150 miles inland to the Sahara desert. The population is a great mixture of French, Arabs, Algerians and some Spanish. The Arabs dressed in their white robes were quite a novelty to us. The coast is quite rugged with broad plains inland. Algeria seems to be quite a prosperous colony. There were numerous large stacks of grain, wheat, oats and barley on the docks which were said to be worth $200,000. The City of Oran is modern in many ways. Many of the buildings are new compared to those in France. I never saw any finer mosaic work than at the large new Cathedral there. We also visited a Mohammedan Mosque and a Jewish Synagogue the latter nearly as large as the Cathedral. The first place on entering we took off our hats. At the Mosque we took off our shoes, and at the Jewish Synagogue they made us put on our hats after we were inside.

One of the interesting parts of town was the Arabian district which is the poorer part of town. The Arabian free market was also a novelty. I bought a lever (½ kilo) of dates at one place for a franc.

By the number of well dressed people we saw on the streets it seems to be a very prosperous country.

One of the Y. M. C. A. men who went inland always said they raised grain on the same scale that they do in America, and that the fruit district was next to that of the Pacific Coast of the States. There were many peddlers about the docks selling apricots, peaches, cherries and other things. The people were not all well to do however as there were many Algerian and Arabian kids clad in rags—and it was surprising how quickly they could get them off if you threw a penny or package of cigarettes over board. One day some of us took a hike tip to an old Spanish fort (Fort Santa Cruz) which was on top of a high hill—some six or seven hundred feet—overlooking the Mediterranean harbor, the city and the plains inland. Many green fields of orchards and grain could be seen at the distance—I think many of the green fields were vineyards as they export large quantities of wine. A large amphitheatre, where they say bull fights are held, could be seen at one edge of the town. The fort was no more used as such. It was evidently built long before modern artillery had come into use, but it is an interesting place occupied by a few French and Arabians. We went down the hill towards the sea and found a place to go in swimming.

We left Oran June 12 in the evening. Passed the straits of Gibraltar with a good view of the southern coast of Spain the next morning. The first two days on the Atlantic it was rather rough but what I had eaten and missed five meals besides. The next five days it was smooth going as crossing a millpond. There were no white Caps. At times the water had a smooth glassy surface with not enough swell to rock a row boat. Reflections of the clouds and stars could be clearly seen in the water and we had some very beautiful sunsets. As we neared this side we hit another storm that ruffled things up a bit and I did not eat for another day but it is smooth again this morning (June 21) and we expect to be in New York tomorrow.

Among other experiences we had a fire in the hold when only a few hours out of Marsailles—but it was soon under control.

There was also a strike by the ships crew the day we were to leave but it was fixed up with only a few hours' delay.

War Savings Stamps spell THRIFT.

What About High Prices?

"When are things coming down?"

The storekeeper hears that question every day. He doesn't hear it quite so often, though, as a few months ago, for the amazing prices of local fruit have set people thinking.

They are thinking that whatever it is that has doubled the price of fruit might be the same thing that has had a similar effect on everything, almost everything, else that one must buy. They are beginning to think, too, that high prices have come to stay.

That high prices have come to stay appears to be growing feeling everywhere. The public is reported in trade journals as "buying-crazy." Dealers cannot supply the consuming demand. Factories are running short of raw materials. The stagnation that existed just after the signing of the armistice has given place to a trade whirl-wind.

We can't pretend to figure it all out from cause to effect. We are told, however, that the world as a whole is comparatively empty. It'll have to be filled up by production. High prices stimulate production, and will, in the end, effect their own cure. But, we are told, it took thirteen years to fill things up after our civil war. How long this time? Some of us won't live long enough to see it!

Here is another point, moreover, that will have to be driven home. It'll hurt a little. It's this: Wages, we all agree, must advance to meet living costs. But higher wages are just beginning—hardly beginning, really—to be paid to clerks and store people generally. We come last, of course. And these higher wages will have to be added to the cost of the goods. This will mean still higher retail prices.

Fire In Cannery

Fire broke out in the syrup room of the California Canneries Co. last Thursday and gained rapid headway before the water could be put on.

The employees made every effort and the fire boys were soon on the job and together the fire was shortly under control. It is almost a miracle how the plant was saved with but the loss of the small cupola on top where the syrup tanks were placed. Considerable fruit was lost on account of the necessary delay and about 50 sacks of sugar were burned. The loss is estimated at about $3,000 partially covered by insurance.

The San Jose chemical company was called to the scene but arrived too late to be of material assistance.

The local fire fighters are to be congratulated on their quick and efficient service. With such a company we may be sure that everything will be done to make our property safe from destruction.

The Passing of the W. C. T. U. Coffee Club

Campbell W. C. T. U. met with Miss Marshman July 9th with vice president, Mrs. Kennedy in the chair. During the business session it was decided to send for literature along helpful lines for free distribution during the summer at the several rest rooms at the canneries.

It was also decided to send fresh fruits to sick soldiers, Mrs. Farley and Mrs. Kennedy furnishing names to whom the packages shall be sent,—it being tho't a personal gift gives more pleasure than free distribution given in a general way. An encouraging report from the Loyal Temperance Legion by its superintendent, Mrs. Treat, was given.

The following reminiscent history was given by Mrs. Whitman, secretary of the Board of Trustees.

"On April 29, 1905, at the home of Mrs. M. Poor the Campbell Woman's Christian Temperance Union elected the following Trustees, Mrs. Mary Savage, Mrs. Mae M. Whitman, Mrs. Rose Hanger, Mrs. Belle Righier, Mrs. Clara Gilman. It was proposed to buy a town lot and establish a Rest Room and Temperance Headquarters.

While the Union was arranging for the project, there came many urgent requests from various quarters to open also a Coffee Club.

Since these requests were so numerous and urgent, it was finally decided to accede to the demand. This action was taken June 14, 1905 and on July 3 the Union held a formal opening. The Campbell Cornet Band furnished music gratis. Mrs. Savage, President of the Board of Managers, presided over a very enjoyable program. Attendance by the public far exceeded all expectations and made it well nigh impossible to properly serve the crowd with refreshments.

The opening was held in Y. M. C. A. Hall. For several years, Mr. B. Campbell furnished rent at a nominal figure as he was a loyal member and generous supporter. He, with others, considered the project a sensible, practical effort toward economy, good cheer and comfort in behalf men and furnishing a needed resting place for the fruit-working women and girls. There have been many expressions of gratitude from both. Altho' not the social centre which it is in larger places, it has filled, during the fruit seasons, a real need in the community. The work of maintaining the place has required self denial, effort and expenditure of time, money. A few papers, magazines and books, and after a time a piano, furnished recreation and good cheer. There has always been the strict rule enforced that no alcoholic drinks should be drank in the premises, and no games of chance allowed. Some seasons the place has not paid expenses, and the Union held fairs, suppers and entertainments, with extra contributions by members, to supply its needed funds. In 1905 the fruit workers did not have the comforts and advantages of the present day. When the building was erected, work was donated by friends that was greatly appreciated and helped quite materially.

There have also been generous donations by several friends. In the early years much credit was due to the faithful service of Mrs. Savage, Mrs. Joy, Mrs. Newcomb, Mrs. Castle, Mrs. Weeks and others too numerous to mention.

The Union has also had some fine helpers in the noble men of the community to whom it feels deeply indebted. For many years the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has advocated welfare work in behalf of the wage earner that now the state is making a necessity. This year the several packing houses in Campbell, are making,—not only the same, but greater efforts to provide for the welfare of their workers, than the W. C. T. U. or any other philanthropic organization could furnish.

As the time seemed ripe this year for turning over the Coffee Club to one of these institutions, negotiations were entered into which resulted in the transfer of the property to the J. C. Ainsley Company who will in future conduct it as a Cafeteria and Rest room for the benefit of its employees. The Geo. E. Hyde Company have erected a new building equipped as a Cafeteria for their workers. The California Canning Co. has also made provision for serving meals.

Thus the initial work of the W. C. T. U. in Campbell in furnishing rest and conveniences for the fruit workers has paved the way for ideal service along these lines.

An interesting program was enjoyed of which space forbids account. The union voted to take a vacation this year,—the first since its organization in December 1894. The next meeting will be held Sept. 3d, with Mrs. Ida Newcomb and it is hoped there may be a large attendance.

Always Rainfall With Cyclone.

Cyclones are always accompanied with rain, generally so violent as to be called a "cloud-burst." When the air is completely saturated with moisture, and a "whirl" is formed, the heated stratum is not carried to so great a height. The upward currents being strong, a vast mass of partially condensed vapor is accumulated in the upper end of the funnel, so to speak, until it finally breaks off its own weight.

Proud of Our Record

Over California hills and valleys, from the blue waters of the Pacific to the snowcapped peaks of the Sierras, from Del Norte to San Diego, there floats a new flag—the State Service Flag. Into this talisman of honor are woven the hearts and lives of the manhood of fifty-eight counties.

From the flag's Silver Stars look the faces of men who on the battlefields were grimly fighting that the homes of loved ones might not be less safe; that the glory of the nation and state be never less splendid. The flag's Golden Stars are the state's guarantee of men's duty well done.

For not by length of life are men judged, but by that which they DO.

California's response with her manhood is now a matter of record. When the nation called for citizens to fight for the cause of freedom and justice, with one accord lawyers, farmers, bankers, merchants, mechanics, students and men in all professions and lines of industry hurried to camps until California's gift of man power became an army, a mighty factor in subduing the outlaw nation which had for over four years been running amuck.

From the beginning of the war, when in answer to the President's call for troops, California responded with 5,000 National Guardsmen and Naval Militiamen, to the signing of the armistice, the total number of men furnished by California was 136,418.

Surely the pride of the Golden State in her Service Flag is justifiable.

Eighty thousand four hundred and eighteen of her sons fought in France.

Twenty thousand patroled the seas to insure safe passage to our troopships.

Over 32,000 served in training camps.

California heard the call and answered with her best. The world's future test will be, not did they return, but did they go?

California's man power DID GO.—Adjutant Borce, of Calif.

Weaver-Snow

Among the many beautiful weddings which nature and the climate of California make possible, was that of Emma Angeline Weaver and Irving Walter Snow which was solemnized at the home of the bride's brother, J. E. Weaver, of Senter Road, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

The attractive grounds, with an artistic fountain and pergola formed an ideal setting and the latter had been made doubly beautiful with hanging baskets of old-fashioned flowers and ferns. To the strains of the Lohengrin march played by Miss Katherine Hazeltine the bridal party advanced from the house and passed under an arch formed of ribbons which were held by the Misses Dorothy Ainsley, Thelma McCoy, Janice and Bernice Baugh, all daintily gowned in white, and a little niece of the bride scattered rose petals along the way.

The bride was accompanied by her father, Edward M. Weaver, by Miss Alma Cox, maid of honor, and Miss Alice Stevens, attendants. The ladies' gowns were of gray crepe and they carried bouquets of white flowers.

The bride was charming in a gown of white silk crepe and a net veil artistically draped and fastened with orange blossoms. Her bouquet also was of old fashioned white flowers, carrying out the general flower scheme.

Mr. Claude Moore acted as groomsmen, and the Rev. A. Jones of the First Congregational church read the Episcopal service.

An informal reception followed during which icecream and the traditional cakes were served. Miss Thelma McCoy was the fortunate contestant for the bride's bouquet.

Many beautiful and useful gifts testified to the wide circle of friends of the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Snow left by auto to spend their honeymoon in Yosemite and later will be at home at the Miracle bungalow on Rincon avenue, recently occupied by Mrs. L. B. Sprecher.

Ben Rodeck is home from his duties at Letterman Hospital on a fifteen day furlough and is helping "Dad" take care of his apricot crop.

The Campbell Water Company has had a crew of men at work all this week laying a large water-main east on Campbell avenue to Foot street and north to the California Canneries Company's plant. This will be a great improvement to that part of town and will greatly facilitate fire fighting in the future.

Organ recital and Community Sing at the Congregational church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. T. M. Bryan, organist of St. Mark's Episcopal church of Upland, California, will give the recital. This will be a musical treat and everybody is invited to attend. Especially are the fruit workers welcome. Admission is free.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Toles, Sr., were informally at home to their friends Tuesday afternoon and evening, at their home in Sunnyoaks avenue, the occasion being their fortieth wedding anniversary. The family enjoyed a reunion, all being present except a daughter who is in San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Toles, Jr., and little son, arrived from Denver the first of the week to add to the pleasant affair.

In a Class by Ourselves

When Columbus discovered America he little dreamed that he was discovering the richest portion of the world's surface. Figures given in the table below are not merely a prosaic enumeration of this country's resources. They are more than that. To the person with imagination, the cold figures are pregnant with life and illustrates the romance of our huge national wealth.

The United States has only six per cent of the world's population and seven per cent of the world's land, yet the country produces as follows:

20 per cent of the world's supply of gold;
40 per cent of the world's supply of silver;
40 per cent of the world's supply of iron and steel;
25 per cent of the world's supply of wheat;
40 per cent of the world's supply of lead;
50 per cent of the world's supply of zinc;
52 per cent of the world's supply of coal;
60 per cent of the world's supply of aluminum;
60 per cent of the world's supply of copper;
60 per cent of the world's supply of cotton;
66 per cent of the world's supply of oil;
75 per cent of the world's supply of corn;
85 per cent of the world's supply of automobiles.

Phelps-Dunn

Miss Mary Elizabeth Phelps of Campbell and Ora Lester Dunn of Seneca were married at Susanville on July 11. They are spending their honeymoon in the wilds of North Fork District, Plumas County in which county Mr. Dunn holds a responsible position with the Great Western Power Co.

Miss Phelps is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Phelps of Sunnyside and a graduate of the local high school, and has taught several years very successfully in the Northern Counties.

The best of wishes are extended Mr. and Mrs. Dunn by the friends of the bride.
